

In every case that the graph is plotted, it was possible to compute a slope with γ value in $]1.8, 2.2[$ interval. It was possible to conclude that the network follows a power law and the Barabási-Albert model produces scale-free networks.